

Children's Health Defense EUROPE

The mission of Children's Health Defense (CHD) is to work tirelessly to end the childhood health epidemics by working to expose causes, eliminate harmful exposures, hold those responsible accountable, seek justice for those injured, and establish safeguards to prevent future harm. As part of holding those responsible accountable, CHD plans to initiate multiple legal initiatives in an effort to defend the health of our children and obtain justice for those already injured. With over half of our nation's children suffering from one or more chronic health conditions — and our federal agencies doing nothing to assist or even acknowledge there's a problem — our collective efforts to end these epidemics are critical.

Children's Health Defense Europe is the European arm of CHD. We share the mission and act in unison and in unity while responding to the call of our time, addressing and serving specific needs of Europe at a local, national and international level.

We strive to partner and support parents and all people, organizations and initiatives in Europe who stand for preserving the conditions of a healthy future for our children and future generations, for a society committed to safeguard freedom, nature and human rights — respecting and ensuring sovereignty of individuals and nations. We seek to contribute and deliver value to our global community.

We operate by applying the tools of Advocacy:
Education, Agitation, Legislation, Litigation, Innovation.

By its legal actions Children's Health Defense Europe is to restore and protect the health of children and adults by eliminating exposures to environmental toxins, holding responsible parties accountable, and establishing safeguards to prevent future harm to health. The association also wishes to defend the respect of human rights, fundamental freedoms and democratic principles in health practices and policies, in particular by promoting the principles of free informed consent and freedom of care, the respect of privacy, freedom of science and transparency.

How We Create Change

CHD Europe was launched in an effort to reveal the scale of the international coup d'état of the 'health security agenda' that is taking place under the cover of the pandemic response. It was initiated by the need to alert people on both sides of the Atlantic and rally support to protect our health and freedoms.

The Kennedy family has a unique role in the history of democracy. In 1963, President John F. Kennedy came to Germany to show the support of the USA for Western Europe against the threat of the communist bloc. In one of the most famous speeches of the 20th Century, his words "Ich bin ein Berliner" were meant to say: "I am with you. I stand in solidarity with the people of this city in their fight for freedom and democracy against a totalitarian regime".

Bearing this in mind, our team felt that the presence of his nephew Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. at the giant freedom rally organized in Berlin could make a huge impact. We did the impossible to start a European chapter and invite him in Berlin to 'wake up the world' at the biggest demonstration of the century. On August 29th 2020, Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. became the 'new Berliner' in history. He delivered an amazing speech exposing the hold up on democracies to a crowd of more than 1 million peaceful participants.

His vibrant talk was eye-opening for millions of people around the world and was spontaneously translated into dozens of languages with massive sharing on social media.

TO PROTECT THE CHILDREN

CHD Europe wants to protect the health and rights of children against abusive medical measures. We feel it is highly dysfunctional for a society to sacrifice the development of the youngest to extend the life of the eldest. Just as it happens with vaccine injury our children are not able to express the harm they suffer and they are often blamed for doing so. Their situation needs to be assessed according to their own needs and physical, mental and social development and well being.

Our first efforts went into supporting research and evaluate the impact on children of wearing mask. We co-funded the development of breathing test stands with safety engineers in Germany and shared legal strategies such as the use of notices of liability for school boards and employers warning about possible harms and the need for safety protocols to protect children's safety. We also communicated reports of scientists, pediatricians and psychologists on the impact of ‘corona-measures’ on the development of children.

CHD Europe pleaded for the annulment of the European Union’s decision to experiment and authorise Covid injections for children and share information on the specific risks they incur.

Children remain at the centre of our mission. They are our future. They are those we are fighting for in the first place.

TO BE THE VOICE OF OUR CHOICES

To make informed decisions we need to be able to compare different possibilities and assess their risks and benefits.

Contrary to what governments are claiming, we do have choices. We feel it’s important not only to defend our freedom to choose but also to remind us of the choices we have. What is the cost of a lockdown and a mass vaccination policy compared to an equal investment in hospital capacity and the use of existing treatments? This needs to be evaluated on a constant basis with the new information available.

But our European team is also keen to take this a step further. We want to rethink our health policies by placing human values at their centre rather than rely on computer simulations often designed to serve those who run them.

What is the role and the limit of a good public health policy? What do we need to invest in to save lives and make this a better world? How can we go back to independent and transparent science? What are the real costs and benefits of vaccines and their alternative?

Introducing new visions and discussing better models is part of our mission and we wish to share the insights of Europe’s and America’s greatest voices.

AND DEFEND OUR RIGHTS

CHD Europe places its advocacy and legal action within the framework of European Institutions.

Earlier this year our team had already worked with CHD on an ‘amicus curiae’ letter to the European Court of Human Rights in a lawsuit that led to a solemn ruling on the issue of mandatory vaccination and human rights.

CHD Europe filed its first case in October 2020 in the Court of Justice in Luxemburg, a request for annulment against the decision of the EU parliament to waive risk assessment mandated by the EU ‘GMO regulation’ for the use of gene technologies in the development of Covid 19 vaccines.

We also supported actions requesting the annulment of the conditional marketing authorisation for each of the Covid Vaccines granted by the European Commission.

In 2021 together with our chairman Robert F. Kennedy, Jr. we focused our efforts on calling the members of the European Parliament to vote against the introduction of a 'Covid safety pass' by sending open letters, petitions and sharing legal and scientific analysis of the proposal.

SHARING KEY INFORMATION AND STRATEGIES

CHD Europe intends to exchange information and share resources related to science, legal actions, petitions and lobby work in Europe. We are facilitating the development of a collective intelligence network. People from all countries feel the need to join forces and offer their skills and competencies. Many are reaching out to us and we can play an important role in bringing them together.

We can say that since the beginning of the pandemic an amazing international network of lawyers, doctors, scientists, journalists and freedom advocates has formed with the help of our organization. Thanks to this we can exchange best practice, key information and strategies or do some fact checking work in order to make a stronger impact in our different countries. We are also collaborating with formal and informal medical groups or parents and citizen associations in several European countries.

A lot of this very precious information can then reach our members through publication on our website, newsletters or in the Defender.

The dynamic between CHD USA and CHD Europe is also key. Much of the work done by Mr. Kennedy and his team is both useful and inspiring for Europeans. For example, legal action against Facebook, open letters to the FDA, lobby work on 5G, articles uncovering fraud and conflicts of interest, all this can be used for our advocacy work and influence European opinions and decisions.

Likewise the information and strategy provided by European lawyers and scientists can benefit lawsuits and lobby work in America. Reliable news about the 'hydroxychloroquine' issue in France, elements of scientific fraud regarding the use of PCR tests uncovered by German lawyers, or the French expert reports on the dangers of RNA vaccines provide valuable arguments and/or evidence.

Finally, and this is a less visible part of our work, we try to make time for personal contacts with other groups and people as we feel it is important to make sure we work with trust, integrity and a common purpose to shape a better future.

EXPOSING THE GLOBAL AGENDA

Mr. Kennedy's speech in Berlin was a tremendous opportunity to increase awareness of the global threat to democracy posed by 'the great reset' with mandatory vaccination, surveillance systems, destruction of the economy, censoring of free speech and the re-engineering of society towards a digital society.

Following on from the Demonstration in Berlin in August 2020, CHD Europe received many requests from independent media to further discuss the pandemic agenda and the mission of Children's Health Defense. Next to referring to Mr. Kennedy's extensive interviews and publications Senta Depuydt, the journalist leading the European chapter, shared insights on the European situation in several articles and interviews in French, Italian, and English, on radio programs, web television channels and across the web. The members of our European team also participated to several demonstrations across Europe

The video "International Message of Hope for Humanity," that Mr Kennedy recorded in October 2020 at our request was screened in at least 15 countries during protests and meetings. In November another talk focusing on democracy and open debate was recorded with health freedom advocates gathered in Copenhagen to discuss ways to maintain human rights on a global basis. Mr. Kennedy's Berlin 'anniversary speech' is a new warning against the threat on our health and freedom and an urgent call to engage in active resistance.

TO INSPIRE PERSONAL ACTION

Children's Health Defense Europe is extremely grateful for the extraordinary work and dedication of his chairman and it's prominent members. Men and women of great charisma and powerful initiatives have a mission to inspire individual actions that can be equally worthy and transformative . We have the strong belief that our 'network of collective intelligence' is the foundation of the free, conscious and human world we want for our children.
